

THE PEAK.

During the current month, up to Thursday last, 55 Visitors had reached the Summit Station on the Summit of the Peak, some of them on horseback, and a great many on foot.

A gentleman who made the ascent of the Peak from Manitou, on foot, one day this week, was anxious to enquire, on his return, of the man who said it was seventeen miles to the Summit by the old trail.

It is said that of those who set out to make the ascent of the Peak, about twenty-five per cent fail to reach the Summit. Most of those who fail give out above timberline.

The seven men at Manitou inform us that they have had the trail from Manitou to the Summit of the Peak, and in some places it is so steep that it is almost impossible to make the ascent.

We have heard complaints that some of the guides at Manitou to Visitors were unwilling to ascend the Peak, and that they could not show much about their business.

Several members of the Texas Delegation ascended the Peak on Tuesday, making the journey on foot. They all sent telegraphic messages to their wives and sweethearts to tell them how high they had risen in the world.

Mr. Smith, the officer in charge of the Summit Station on the Summit of the Peak, has not yet received any of the letters that the Signers of the Declaration of Independence have sent to him, and he is anxious to receive them.

The new trail to the Summit, near Bear Creek, is an easy one, and has been put into the hands of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, and they are all anxious to ascend it.

Mr. S. S. Norton, C. E., is engaged in taking a series of views, along the new trail from Manitou to the Summit of the Peak, and he is all the while taking the same ground.

Mr. Gurnsey has just returned from a trip to the Peak, and has a great many interesting stories to tell.

It is said that the Signers of the Declaration of Independence are all anxious to ascend the Peak, and that they are all anxious to reach the Summit.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Canon and Miss Kingsley, a party of friends, intended next week to ascend the Peak, and they are all anxious to reach the Summit.

About four acres of hay is being grown in the Park, and it is all the while being cut and stacked.

Arrangements are being made for the next season, and it is all the while being cut and stacked.

CLAY LIVING.

A case of considerable interest came before Justice Hoyt, on Wednesday last, for the purpose of settling the claim of the defendant against the plaintiff.

The sworn statement of the plaintiff was read, and it was found that he had been in possession of the land since the year 1873.

The defendant's answer was that he had been in possession of the land since the year 1873, and that he had been in possession of the land since the year 1873.

The court found in favor of the plaintiff, and he was awarded the land. The defendant's answer was that he had been in possession of the land since the year 1873, and that he had been in possession of the land since the year 1873.
